

Hello Delegates,

Welcome to the ‘Designated Survivor’ (Beginner) Committee of LLMUNC 25! We, your chairs, are thrilled to meet all of you and navigate the future of America together. Here’s a little insight into who will be guiding you through this committee on February 22!

Head Chair Adam Tarr is a proud Las Lomas alumnus. A former President of the Las Lomas MUN Club for two years, Adam is now continuing his MUN journey as a freshman at Stanford University, where he is studying Political Science. Adam remains passionate about MUN for its unique ability to replicate government decision-making processes and foster political debate that brings people together. Some of his favorite MUN memories include attending Berkeley Model UN (BMUN) and traveling with the club. Adam is eager to see how delegates in this committee will work to shape history. He encourages everyone to embrace creativity, extrapolate their positions, and have fun while using the given baseline as a foundation.

Vice Chair Ashmi Gaur is a junior at Las Lomas High School and currently in her second year of Model UN. One of her favorite MUN memories is drinking endless cups of coffee on the BART to BearMUN with her friend (and fellow vice chair!) Chris Impinna. For Ashmi, Model UN has been a space to build confidence and assertiveness, which keeps her coming back. In this committee, she is most excited to witness—and even fuel—the chaos that will inevitably unfold by the end of sessions! She encourages delegates to think outside the box, take bold actions, and bring their best effort to the committee because the fun you have is directly tied to the energy you put into it.

Vice Chair Chris Impinna is also a junior at Las Lomas High School and in his second year of Model UN. Chris joined Model UN for the unique challenges it offers in debate and diplomacy. Like Ashmi, his favorite MUN memory is drinking endless cups of coffee on the BART to BearMUN with her. Chris looks forward to the absence of a traditional power structure in this committee, allowing for creative problem-solving and political rivalries. He advises delegates to embrace the chaos, take risks, and not shy away from making bold moves—it’s all part of the fun!

We can’t wait for LLMUNC 25’ and the wild day of the committee that awaits. Get ready to challenge yourselves, make bold decisions, and enjoy this unique experience.

Sincerely,

Adam Tarr, Ashmi Gaur, and Christopher Impinna
